

Over 400 miles trip, From San Francisco to Los Angeles on Model S, Jan 9, 2013 by Darren

The drive was epic. I can't believe how awesome it was! I was mostly concerned with the single supercharger station at Harris Ranch, but there was no one there both ways. I started with a Max Range charge in San Francisco (265 rated range). Got to Harris Ranch with 66 miles left and charged for 20 minutes and left the ranch with 160 range. Got to Tejon Ranch with 20 miles. I was definitely cutting it close. Charged for 30 minutes and headed to LA with 170 miles range. I averaged 70 mph the whole way except going over the Grapevine.

The drive back was a little more hectic because the longest leg was Harris Ranch to SF, which meant having almost a full charge at Harris Ranch to get to SF. I left Harris Ranch with 235 miles of range and got to SF with 35 miles left.

The drive down to LA and back was basically free

SF to Harris Ranch = 185 miles
Harris Ranch to Tejon Ranch = 125 miles
Tejon Ranch to LA Live = 85 miles
Total = ~400 miles

Here are some pics from my phone:

Harris Ranch:

Tejon Ranch:

